Mindframe reminder for responsible reporting on the Christchurch shooting

15 March 2019
Please cascade to all media staff

Mindframe reminds media of the responsible reporting on the breaking news around the Christchurch shooting, and to use caution when speculating the link between the shooter’s state of mind and the incident.

Mindframe give a strong warning to be mindful of embedded live feeds of the incident – reports of syndicated media and social media have alerted us to graphic and live content of a highly distressing nature and may negatively impact audiences and be distressing to you and your staff.

Like the rest of the nation, our thoughts are with those who have been affected by this tragedy in Christchurch, particularly the families, friends, first responders and communities of those who have been lost or injured following this attack.

We ask media to refrain from linking the motivations of the perpetrator to mental illness until motives have been established. Research shows us that less than 4% of mass shootings have any links to mental illness. Many violent people have no history of mental illness and most people with a mental illness have no history of violence.

Certain language and stereotypes can lead to negative community attitudes and stigmatise people living with a mental illness, as well as present inaccuracies about mental illness or mental health care.

Secondly, Australian media are particularly reminded to be cautious when using or repeating overseas media coverage due to the potential for harmful and inaccurate content around mental health issues from overseas media outlets that may use colloquial language out of context.

Mindframe would like to remind all journalists and those working in the media that these tragic incidents can also have an impact on the welfare of those covering the story. To support media professionals Mindframe, in consultation with the DART Centre Asia Pacific, has developed journalism self-care resources which include helpful tips for journalists as well as advice for editors and line managers. More info here

Finally, any coverage of this incident should include details of help-seeking resources below.

More information on reporting guidelines can be found on the Mindframe website.

If you find any problematic media coverage, please refer directly on to Sane StigmaWatch for urgent follow up: https://www.sane.org/changing-attitudes/report-a-media-item-to-stigmawatch
Help-seeking information

Adding help-seeking information to stories (online, print and broadcast) can provide somewhere for people who may be adversely impacted by the coverage to find professional support.

National 24/7 Crisis Services
Suicide Call Back Service: 1300 659 467 www.suicidecallbackservice.org.au
MensLine Australia: 1300 78 99 79 www.mensline.org.au
Beyond Blue: 1300 22 4636 www.beyondblue.org.au

Support services

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Adult</th>
<th>Youth</th>
<th>Other resources</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>
SANE: online forumssane.org

| | | healthinfonet.edu.au - Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander1800 184 527 qlife.org.au - Lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans, and/or intersexmhima.org.au - Culturally and linguistically diverse |

The Mindframe project team
Tel: 02 4924 6900 OR 0427 227 503
Email: mindframe@hnehealth.nsw.gov.au
Twitter: @MindframeMedia

If you find any problematic media coverage, please refer directly on to Sane StigmaWatch for urgent follow up: